

Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Monday 12 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Another rather cold day with isolated showers in the afternoon.

Today:

A cloudy start in the southwest with patchy rain and hill snow, whilst drier and brighter elsewhere. Patchy cloud and isolated showers developing for all in the afternoon. Feeling cold, though more pleasant in any sunshine. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Tonight:

Cloud clearing through the evening to become largely clear and dry overnight. The odd patch of low cloud developing by dawn. Cold with widespread frost forming, especially under clear skies. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Tuesday:

After a bright and frosty start, cloud will increase bringing scattered showers between sunny intervals come the afternoon, these showers locally heavy. Feeling milder than Monday. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:

Sunshine and isolated showers on Wednesday. Dry with plenty of sunshine on Thursday, and Friday, although generally becoming cloudier during the afternoons. Gradually becoming milder, although still rather cold overnight.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.